

Why are the two buyers in Brussels for the most part, but "jobbers," it is, they try to sell: they must keep their profit to pay their way, in order to do this, they cut on the prices, they club together and artificially depreciate an article of consumption inferior in importance either cotton, sugar, nor tobacco. It is absurd to expect that, in the European goods market in Europe, would shoddy goods be sold, but it is by no means absurd to expect that, when sellers, or their producers, sell at prices here 40 per cent. below the market prices of Europe, they will be victorious by the unvarying picking and choosing of the buyer: reductions, discounts, the Devil knows what, but that, in the end, five hundred boxes of wool, sold at first at $5, and on accounts are made up, average

Cricket Match.—On Monday there was a striking match between the single men and the Benevolents. We have not heard the result, but suppose the members must have won, since the "better half" of the Party Politics.—For her sake, brother Editor, take lessons in English of some good proficients; yesterday's issue contains 117 orthographical slips, 5 horrible violations of Syntax, and such a hundred vacancies that your home readers will think your "devil" must be got up the impression, while you are sky-larking at the Tigre. Give courage you'll master English in the tabula rasa.

Flying Report.—It is said that the English Minister has protested against Mitre's capture of Buenos Ayres, on the grounds that it is, in part, British property, and, of Salteña shareholders. I never heard of any owners but Brazilians and Cabral, and, as they are Brazilians, we do not believe the report.
